TRIAL SUPPLEMENT

Eastern Quebec Sheep Dog Trial June 13-14, 1992

Trialers at the Northern-most Trial in North America

by Bruce Smart

Fourteen handlers and twenty-eight dogs were entered in this new trial. The site, in the hills overlooking the St. Lawrence estuary, was remarkably beautiful. From the fetch gates to the post the course was level, but the open dogs had to climb a steep slope to pick up the sheep and they were also lost to view for a short time, which caused the usual problems for some. The large cross-bred ewes were particularly hard to pen and those who succeeded placed well.

Our hosts, Paul Lagace and Helene Forbes, could not have been more graceful and welcoming. Language proved to be no barrier to communication, in fact some Americans are now well on the way to becoming bilingual. On Saturday night we were driven in a school bus into Matane for a seafood supper and, to judge from the laughter and singing on the way home, all of us had a very good time.

EDITORS' NOTES

These are a short set of notes this issue, as we prepare for our annual trek to the Canada Triple Crown. This is as much a vacation for us as it is a chance to stack up 6 trials in a single week. We head, first, up to Stittsville, near Ottawa for the first leg and an entire weekend on the Neuendorff farm. Then we will go down into the Thousand Islands for some boating and swimming in the St. Laurence before heading out to the Buckley's for the second leg in the middle of the week. Then back to the St. Laurence for the final leg at Grass Creek Park. What a whirlwind trip.

Most important in our continuing discussions is the vote to change the By-Laws. I'm sure that you are tired of reading about it, but this issue is exactly why we are trying to change them. Currently, the By-Laws require a two-thirds majority of ALL members to enact a change. We are proposing that a change can be enacted at the Annual Meeting with a two-thirds majority of those in attendance. In this way, we can avoid the problems we are encountering with this vote -- we simply do not have enough votes to represent even one-half the membership. For the proposal or against it, we must have two-thirds of the members voting in accordance with the old By-Laws.

Another issue was raised at the last meeting (Notes attached). It is apparent now that there are families where more than one member participates in NEBCA-sponsored events, yet they have only an individual membership. For both members of the family to qualify they must both be members of NE-BCA or take out a Farm/Family membership. Please check your label for your status (indicated by an I for individual or F for Farm/Family). For those families with Individual Memberships, if you would like to continue with that same membership, please contact these Editors or the Secretary to identify which family member will be assigned the NEBCA membership.

Minutes of NEBCA Meeting Held at E. Durham, NY July 25, 1992

The meeting was called to order at 8:00 p.m. by President Steve Wetmore.

The Treasurers Report was submitted by Dee Woessner. She reported that the current balance is $5450.36.

Old Business:

It was decided at the last NE-BCA Meeting to discontinue the NEBCA Futurity Trial. Any money paid into the futurity fund will be refunded. All requests for refunds should be directed to Dee Woessner.

New Business:

The Fall Foliage Championship Trial will be held October 10 & 11, 1992; the tentative site is Strafford, VT. Steve Wetmore will be the trial manager, with Nathan Mooney judging.

By-Laws Vote: The Ballots are still not coming back. Members who have not voted on this important issue are requested to return their ballots as soon as possible.

NEBCA Ads in Trial Programs: Several requests for NEBCA ads have been received by Steve Wetmore, and he estimated that it would cost NEBCA about $600 to place ads in all the trial programs. Vergil Holland suggested that each trial manager put in a complimentary ad for NEBCA in their trial programs.

NEBCA Individual/Farm Membership: Husband/wife teams are encouraged to review their membership status and, if they presently have Individual Membership, they may wish to consider changing to Farm Membership, entitling each to the benefits of NEBCA.

Dee Woessner motioned that there be a 6-month trial period for all members to borrow books from the Lending Library at no charge. The goal would be to extend more support to the non-trialing members to borrow books from the NEBCA Library. Members present at the meeting requested more frequent publication of the books and videos available through the Lending Library. This was seconded by Gabe Merrill and the motion passed.

It was noted that money had been appropriated for the purchase of videos for the Lending Library. Due to the large number of requests for videos, Lin Reuther will purchase new videos with the available funds.

Dee Woessner also recommended that an eye testing clinic be held in conjunction with a trial. Dee has been authorized to write to the American Border Collie Association to request funding to help sponsor the eye clinic.

The next meeting will be held the evening of October 3, 1992 following Roger Deschambeault's NH State Championship Trial in E. Conway, NH.

The meeting was adjourned at 8:50 p.m.

Respectfully submitted, Kathy Deschambeault

215 Dogs Compete at Sheepy Hollow Joy's Pennsylvania State Championship June 19-21, 1992

by Walt Jagger

Border Collie handlers and their dogs gathered together from 14 states and 2 Canadian Provinces to compete at the Pennsylvania State Championship Trial at Sheepy Hollow Farm in Hop Bottom, PA for the 11th consecutive year. Lewis Pulfer of Quincy, Ohio ably judged.

Is that a First Aid Kit Betty Levin is carrying?!

Friday the younger dogs and handlers ran in four classes with a total of 92 dogs in competition running. The overcast sky was a God-send as the cooler day made all of the sheep more man-

A dinner provided by the Jagger Family with pot luck help from the handlers fed about 145 people on Friday night.

Saturday dawned overcast and cool and with only a few sprinkles stayed that way all day which made for more consistent draws of sheep for the handlers. Joy Dog Food by Best Feeds of Oakdale, PA co-sponsored the trial with the Universalist Church of Brooklyn, PA. The Church provided their usual excellent chicken barbecue. A large tent provided shelter from any raindrops and bleachers provided seating for the large crowd of spectators.

Many excellent runs were scattered throughout the day, and a score of 98 was necessary to be in the top ten. Final results are as follows:

Sunday started with a church service for any who wished to attend under the big tent. A more beautiful setting for a worship service would be hard to imagine. Well attended and inspirational, it started the day on a cheerful note.

The weather Sunday continued to be dreary and cold with spurts of showers. A change in the sheep caused no particular problem. Gene Sheninger provided the sheep for Sunday, and they ran very well and consistently. Again competition was very strong with many good runs. The spectators were not as plentiful as Saturday because of the cold dreary weather but still was well represented.

The placings, again with 99 necessary to even be in the top ten, were as follows. A three-way tie for first place and a two-way tie for 7th and 8th were all run off to break the ties. Seventh and eighth place had identical scores throughout. Other ties could be resolved by outwork.

Bill Berhow Clinic

Bill Berhow and Steve Wetmore at the Spring Valley Farm Clinic

by Dee Woessner

What a weekend! A friend used to say that the best experiences combined entertainment and education. The Bill Berhow Clinic, hosted by Steve Wetmore and Sarah Root at their Vermont farm on June 5-6, combined the two elements in perfect measure.

For at least a week after I attended the clinic, I kept telling my husband, "Bill says, when Abbie does ... I should ...." I was full of information, new ideas and the general excitement of seeing my dog work better than she had ever worked before. I took pages of notes and have read them over several times, each reading reminding me of some bit of advice I should incorporate into my daily work and training.

Since starting training my first Border Collie, Abbie (only too long ago), she had slowly improved. Once in a while the improvement has been gradual but, usually after months of trying to get a point across, she will change seemingly overnight, suddenly giving me a gentle lift or a nice square flank. Often I had no idea of what finally made the connection for her. At the clinic, she made another leap, in this case clearly due to Bill's directions to me on teaching her to drive. It was a real thrill seeing her do far more than I had known she could.

The clinic got off to a late start on Saturday because Bill arrived at 6 a.m. after an all-night drive from Virginia where he had left his champion dog Nick at a veterinary clinic due to a severe illness. (Last heard, Nick is much improved.)

Before he started working with the dogs, Bill talked about some of his philosophies of training. He thinks the dog/handler partnership has three steps. In the first, the dog has to get control of himself, without a great deal of external control imposed on him by the handler. (Bill doesn't advise using training aids like long lines or small pens and describes even a leash as a last resort.) In the next stage, the dog gives up control to the handler and learns to take commands. This can occur when the dog is emotionally ready, when he has had the proper early training, and when he trusts that the handler knows what he is doing. Finally, when training is advanced, the handler gives control back to the dog, so that they work as a team. Bill says that some successful handlers may never reach the third stage, but the very best teams share control. During his sessions with the dogs, he often pointed out to the handlers where they were in this progression and where they should be going.

Because several people dropped out just before the clinic, those attending the two days got long sessions in the field, working at least three times. Some of the dogs (and handlers) showed tremendous improvement. He helped by telling the handler what to do and, more important, when to do it, and the change in the dogs was often amazing. My own dog, who had just started driving, was pushing her sheep across the field like a pro (something I hope to see again someday, when I get the timing just right).

After working with each dog, he made comments to the group on his recommendations for training. His advice included ignoring bad behavior, unless it was too severe, as much of it will go away on its own. He recommended letting dogs work out problems on their own when possible, and said that what a dog teaches itself will stay with it when the dog is under pressure. He also gave tips for improving scores on the trial field, including advice on turns at the post and shedding, and explained some fine points of judging.

One of Bill's comments startled many of us. He said that a handler's first dog is usually a happy worker, but with the second dog the handler may try for too much control and the dog is less happy. He felt that a handler would more likely ruin their second dog than their first, a shock to all of us who thought our second dog was going to be perfect!

A handler, having heard that such coddling could spoil them, asked if trial dogs could live in the house. Bill replied that, of course, they could and many of his own dogs did. The handlers broke into spontaneous applause and cheers!

The sessions on Saturday continued until almost dark. Then handlers had a pot luck dinner and talked dogs until everyone was exhausted. Sunday we got off to an early start and continued all day, with a short lunch break. One of my dogs was the last one in the field Sunday evening, when it was so dark that if the sheep hadn't been white we couldn't have seen them.

Bill's respect for all the dogs was evident. His philosophy of trusting the dogs and letting them do some learning on their own rather than trying for rigid control felt right. And all he taught the clinic participants may have moved them a little nearer the goal of being dangerous handlers.

NEBCA Library

by Lin Reuther

Please don't forget your library! We have terrific training video tapes and books, as well as neat tapes to watch (the International Supreme Trials) and great stories to read.

Complete lending rules were printed in the Spring 1992 NE-BCA News, but briefly each tape costs $3.00 to borrow and you may keep tapes two weeks and books three weeks. But we're running a SPECIAL! Anyone who will write a review of a book or tape for NEBCA News can borrow free! So, you critical reviewers and members with sharp pencils - let us hear from you soon!

We have had a set of two training tapes returned to us: an independent study from the University of Guelph - Part 1 - "Selection and Early Training of Border Collies"; Part 2 - "Basic Training for Sheep Work". We'd love to have someone watch them and tell us all about them!

One of our most popular tapes is Glyn Jones' "Come Bye! And Away!" It's a 40 minute video which starts with a totally untrained dog going to sheep for the first time. Jones shows how he teaches his commands and gains the cooperation of the dog. The training sessions are filmed over the summer months in Wales (gorgeous scenery) and take the dog through driving, penning, and shedding. A great tape for both novice trainers and those further along. Anyone want to view it and give us their opinion?

All library requests go to:

Lin Reuther RR 1 Box 1147 Pittsford, VT 05763

Also, we need suggestions of other videos or books the members would like us to buy for the library. Please drop me a note, or tell Steve Wetmore, Becky Peterson, or Dee Woessner if you see them at a trial. The library is for all members so we need your input! Maybe books on tracking, search and rescue, sledding, etc. - let us know!

New Video Tapes for the Library

We have recently received back three more video tapes for the Library. Two are the Tony Collins' video, "Training the Working Border Collie", and one is the third tape in the University of Guelph series, "Practical Shepherding, Part 3 - Advanced Training for Sheep Work".

Also, we plan to purchase the following new tapes:

Rural Route Videos (Martin Penfold) - "Training and Working A Border Collie" - Excellent - said to be the one video a novice should own.

Glyn Jones' next video for intermediate dogs, as soon as it comes out, hopefully this summer.

"Training and Working Dogs" by Lithgow, as soon as it comes out. Also will purchase right away his book by the same name, which goes into canine psychology, different stages of development, puppy socialization, etc.

Any book or tape purchase recommendations members have, please let me know. Any interest in Blue Riband of the Heather? Viv Billingham's One Woman and Her Dog? Any others? Let Lin know!

NEBCA BOOKS NOW BORROWED FREE!

At the NEBCA meeting held on July 25 after the Irish International Trial in NY, it was voted to send library books to members FOR FREE on a 6-month trial basis. So you can now borrow any of our books for merely the cost of return postage (about $1.50). Contact Lin Reuther, RR 1 Box 1147, Pittsford, VT 05763 to borrow a book. Videotapes, due to their popularity and greater cost, will continue to cost $3.00 to borrow.
